Excerpt from Transactions and Reports of the Nebraska State Historical Society, Vol. 1

I have on file the autobiographies of many of the old and prominent citizens, still living, for future use.

As to future collections and reports, I feel I cannot too strongly urge the people of the state to make contributions. The importance of such work requires no argument. A moment's thought will convince all. Only let thoughts be followed by acts and an invaluable work is easily and quickly accomplished.
